Wrenbury Weekly...

This week the children have been sharing acts of kindness around school as part of the NSPCC Kindness Challenge. Our Wrenbury children are always kind but this week they made an extra effort to go the extra mile this week which has been lovely to see. Our Little Wrens have been enjoying the book 'The Little Red Hen', one of my personal favourites. They, unlike the characters in the story, did want to help and with Miss Gregory they made some delicious bread. Base 2 were very excited on Wednesday as they went on their school trip. Their faces as the train pulled up at the station ready to take them into Nantwich were a fabulous sight to see, full of wonder and excitement! After their walk to the station and their walk around Nantwich, I think they all slept well that night! This week we also enjoyed our harvest festival at St Margaret's Church. It was lovely to see the children share some songs and poems and it was lovely to see parents there too. Our reading leaders announced their front cover competition winners; Beth won first prize with Lumi, Scout and Hattie as runners-up. Well done to everyone who entered.

Base 3: Isaac and Aedan for super teamwork when learning about the Romans.

Base 4: Zara Shardlow for showing amazing engagement in her writing.

Base 5: Matthew for improving his attitude towards his learning.

In assembly this week we talked about all the things that we do at Wrenbury; we listen, we share, we help others when they need it, we hold the door, we make sure our work is the best it can be. The list went on and on! So, we decided that we would make it a little easier to remember and decided that; At Wrenbury, we are safe, we are ready, we are kind. These three expectations help us to make sure that we get the most out of school, both academically and socially and both children and adults in school will be using these three rules to keep our school a safe and happy place- without having to remember too many things!

The school House Captains will be running a poster competition next week which focuses on these rules, please do keep an eye out for this.

Harvest – we enjoyed a lovely service at church today. There was a real family feel to this and a sense of gratitude for autumn and for those around us. Thank you all so much for donating to chance changing lives charity for harvest. They were thrilled with the donations; it will make a real difference.
